

INTASURE'S PLEASURE CRAFT INSURANCE

DON'T CONFUSE HIGHER PREMIUMS WITH 'MORE EXPENSIVE!'

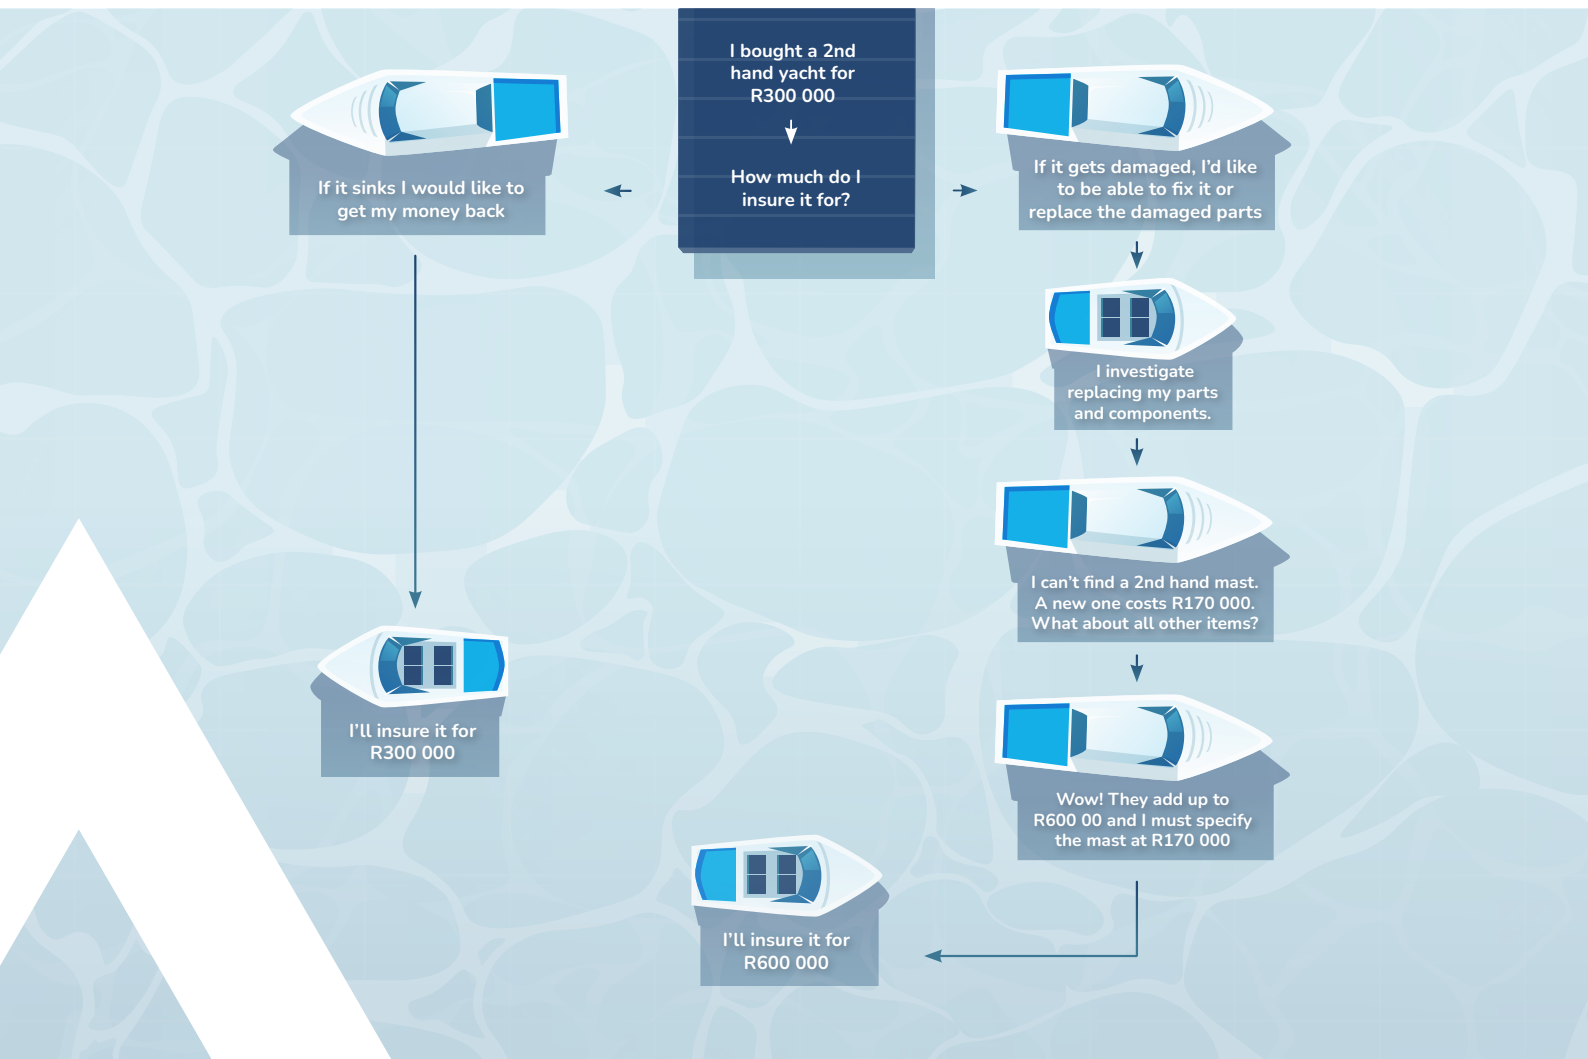

If ever you are comparing your Intasure insurance premiums with those of another owner it's important to compare 'apples with apples.' What appears to be a higher premium is invariably because we are offering a more comprehensive cover for a higher sum insured. The cover provided by one policy may be far better than the cover provided by another and any difference in premiums is derived from ensuring that the sum insured of your vessel is adequate and will stand you in good stead.

Intasure – good value and good advice

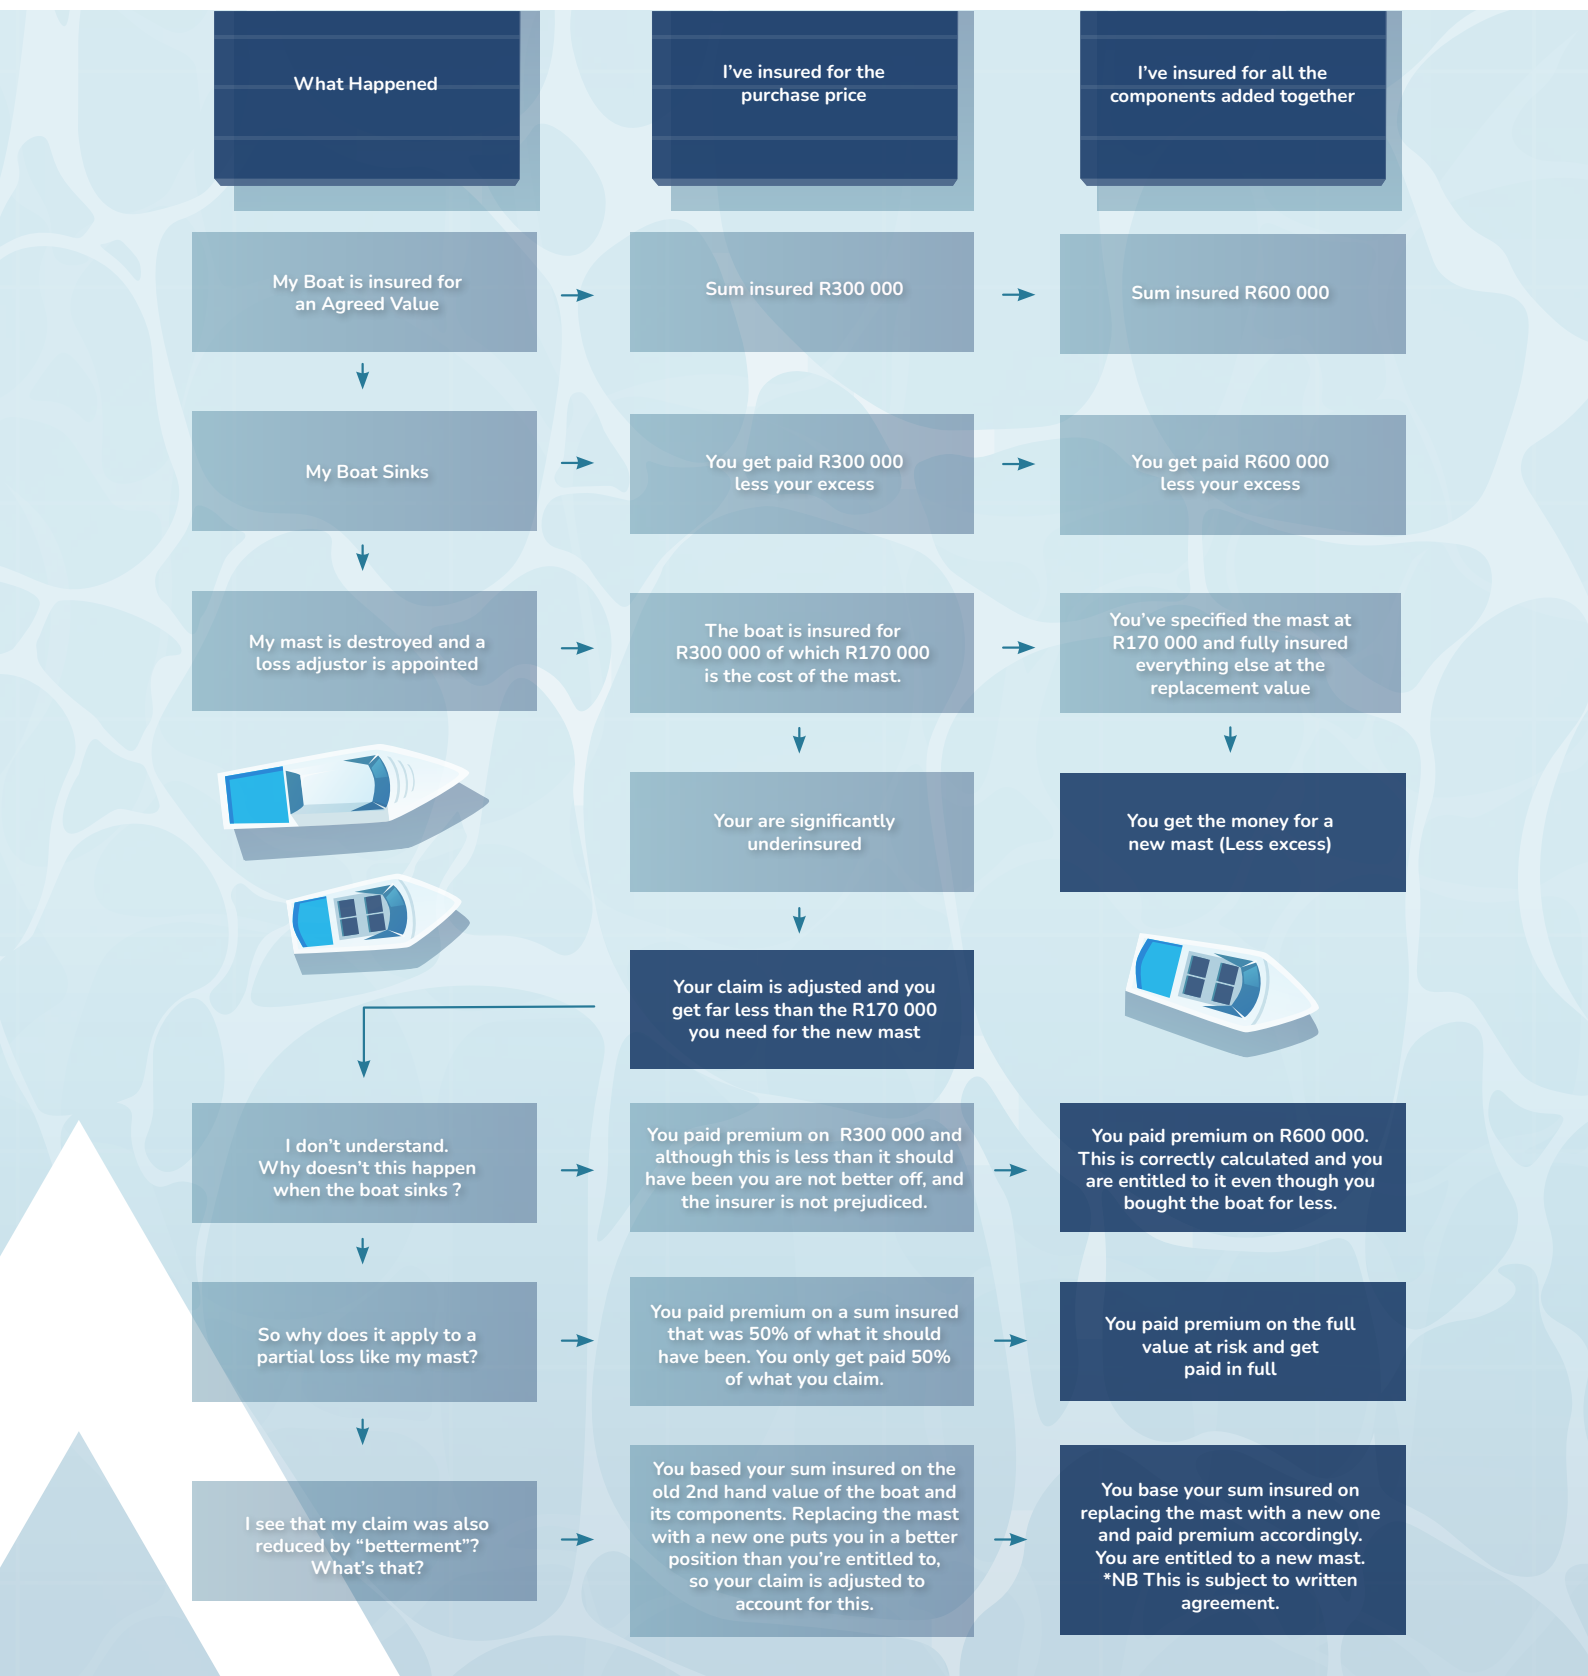

Always offering excellent value, Intasure's premiums follow the sum insured and misunderstandings only arise when owners confuse what they paid for (or could sell the vessel for) with a correct insured sum.

We advise, therefore, that you consider certain factors which, if ignored, could result in the claim not being settled according to expectations.

So, when determining the sum insured on your vessel, please consider the following:

How your choice of the sum insured impacts different claims scenarios.

In practice, insurance is more complicated than the examples above, but the principles are basically as illustrated. Our example allows for new replacement value and this is not always applicable but we are here to assist you make the correct decisions - just call Intasure's Marine Department on 021 7126686 or use the emails below.
